We love a sleek and clean space as much as the next design enthusiast, however we must admit that the neutral colour palette and absence of quirky details in our interior decor can sometimes feel like the space lacks personality. Hence, we introduce a major trend in 2024 home decor the concept of maximal minimalism.

FEATURED INTERVIEW

Floors Galore

Join us as we discover the best flooring for new builds with the team from Andersens, a family owned and operated business dedicated to helping you create the home of your dreams. Whether you're building, renovating, or simply looking to explore flooring options, Andersen's Homeworld Helensvale is the ideal place to begin.

with Jimmy & Bernadette

from Andersen's

What types of flooring does Andersen's specialize in?

At Andersen's, we specialize in a wide range of flooring options, including vinyl planks, hybrid flooring, and engineered timber.

How do you determine the best type of flooring for a specific room or area in a new build?

Choosing the best flooring for a specific room or area in a new build depends on proper floor preparation and color coordination. We can find solutions for almost any situation.

Which flooring options are the most durable and why?

Vinyl planking stands out as one of the most durable options because it is tough, waterproof, and easy to maintain.

What are the current trends in flooring for new builds?

Textured loop carpets and wool flooring have been particularly popular.

Based on your experience, what is your top recommendation for flooring in new build?

It really comes down to personal preference. Personally, I recommend vinyl planks paired with a nice textured wool carpet for a fresh and stylish look.
